Press and Public Appalled Over Steps Towards Mobilization Taken by Austria and Russia

London, Nov. 26.—The possibility and danger of a greater war than that between the Balkan states and Turkey absorbs public interest far more than the first bout of diplomacy between the belligerents outside of Constantinople.

The steps towards mobilization which Austria and Russia are taking, although but preliminary precautions, have made possible a vision of the vast consequences, which, as far as Great Britain is concerned, are considered nothing less than appalling.

The British public apparently has no desire to sacrifice lives and money, paralyze commerce and risk the navy over the question of the status of the Balkan peninsula. Yet it is uneasy, because ignorant of how far Great Britain's diplomatic engagements with France and Russia extend in the direction of an alliance, and of how much likelihood there is that the government will be drawn into a conflict in which one or both of its partners in the entente, may be engaged.

Drifting Toward War.

The Liberal press is unanimous in urging Great Britain to preserve neutrality. The majority of the Conservatives demand the same policy. The Times, declaring that none of the Eu-

LIFE SAVERS FIND BOAT

Believed to Be That of Calvin Brooks Missing From Eliot Since Friday.

On Friday, Captain Hall and the crew of the Portsmouth Harbor Life Saving Station espied a boat floating in the water off Wood Island. The crew put off and picked up the overturned craft which proved to be a wherry, such as is used by the residents of Eliot and places up the river.

The wherry corresponds with the one owned by Calvin Brooks of So. Eliot, who has been missing since last Friday, and when last seen was on his way to Frankfort Island, to spear eels. The finding of the overturned wherry is believed conclusive proof that Brooks was drowned.

GENERAL TRUST INVESTIGATION

One Will Be Commenced in the Early Part of the Year.

Washington, Nov. 26.—A general trust investigation will be undertaken by the House Judiciary committee immediately after the Christmas holiday recess of the coming session of Congress. Chairman Clayton in the committee declared today, that while the committee had made general plans for an investigation, no specific lines of inquiry had been fixed, and the committee would devote its entire time to eliciting information that might be valuable in forming anti-trust legislation.

No currency from legislation will be attempted at the coming session of Congress, it was practically decided today at an informal conference of the democratic members of the subcommittee of the house banking and currency committee, headed by Representative Glass of Virginia.

DISPOSAL OF BIG FORTUNE

Carnegie Resolved to Fulfill the Requirements of Gospel of Wealth

New York, Nov. 26.—Andrew Carnegie in a statement tonight announced that all but $25,000,000 of his fortune which will be disposed of under his will, will be left to the Carnegie Corporation of New York which has been made his residuary legatee and which will carry on his educational and charitable work.

Mr. Carnegie's statement likewise explains his reasons for planning to pension ex-presidents of the United States as he provided for recently through the Carnegie Corporation.

In making his announcement, telling how he had gone about putting his "Gospel of Wealth" into practice, Mr. Carnegie said: "I resolved the fulfillment of the requirements of the 'Gospel of Wealth' by transferring funds and have done so except that I have found it desirable to retain for awhile personal distribution of my United States Military Telegraph Corps pensions, and Pennsylvania railroad pensions, to Pittsburgh division men and their widows, because my old boys would dislike the change and so a doubt would others upon my pension list.

"To meet these payments and others under my will $25,000,000 of bonds upon which the New York state tax has been paid has been reserved. But the New York Corporation has been made my residuary legatee and all surplus left after meeting the provision of my will goes to it.

"I am happy in getting all this off my mind. It is a gruesome business but I find that this earth is rapidly becoming more and more heavenly, so many good men and women I know labor for others. Surely Luther Franklin, and their followers were right, who held that 'Service to Man is the Highest Worship of God'.

In explaining his pension plan Mr. Carnegie cited the cases of three ex-presidents as affording justification for the project, the announcement of which he said, was making the desired impression.

His trustees and himself were hoping he said, that Congress would meet the situation by proper action.

"Not one of us but what will rejoice should this be the result," he said. "We were very careful to provide that our plan Congress failed to provide pensions to ex-presidents the Corporation would stand ready to do so. It is properly the province of the nation to act. We all feel that."

Mr. Carnegie referred to a recently published letter which dealt with the circumstances of Grover Cleveland after his retirement from the Presidency. This mention was made by the iron master in support of the propriety of his plan for pensions.

"I know about Mr. Cleveland said Mr. Carnegie in this statement. "He told me of an offer he had to serve as director in an important institution which would give him a salary. Finding that other directors had no salaries he declined the offer, saying his name was not for sale. He was offered any sum required to keep him and his family in comfort, until he

WOMAN STRUCK BY TRAIN

Hannah Sullivan Is In Hospital With Broken Arm And Leg.

Mrs. Hannah Sullivan of Canton street was hit by the passenger train leaving here for Boston at 10:40 o'clock this morning, while walking on the tracks of the Boston & Maine railroad.

The accident happened a short distance this side of the Creek overhead bridge.

The train was brought to a quick stop and the train crew on going back a short distance found Mrs. Sullivan lying between the tracks. The woman although considerably bruised was unconscious, and a call was immediately sent for the ambulance to take her to the Portsmouth Hospital.

At the hospital she was attended by Dr. John J. Berry, who on examination found she had sustained a fracture of the right arm and the left leg. She also sustained numerous bruises about the head and body.

Fortunately for Mrs. Sullivan when she was struck by the train she was hurled away from it, preventing any of the heavy coaches from passing over her.

Some years ago while walking on the railroad track Mrs. Sullivan was struck by a shifting engine, in nearly the same locality, and quite badly injured, it however seems that this did not deter her from walking on the tracks again.

SENATOR GALLINGER MAY RETIRE

Washington Dispatch Claims Senior Senator Will Retire Before His Term is Out.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The rumor has reached Washington from apparently authoritative sources that senator Gallinger, has decided to retire before the end of his term in 1915. The reason for this action is said to be that senator Gallinger feels himself to be out of sympathy with the senate as now constituted, and that he dreads another long summer session in the heat of Washington. Senator Gallinger will be 76 years old next March. In the days of regular republican control of the senate, that is to say, till two years ago, senator Gallinger was a power in the upper chamber. Today there are not enough republican votes to elect him president pro tempore of the senate, and the policies and measures in which he chiefly believes, find few to support them on either side of the house. It is believed that Mr. Gallinger is actuated by much the same power as was senator Crane of Massachusetts when he declared that he was not a candidate for reelection.

GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION

Lawrence Operatives Wildly Cheer; Acquitted Leaders on Their Return.

Lawrence, Nov. 26.—Four thousand persons greeted with red lights and cheers the return to this city tonight of Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso, who were acquitted in Salem today on the charge of murder in connection with the death of Anna Lopizzo during the textile strike here last winter.

Women with month-old babies in their arms joined in the demonstration, which grew in volume as the crowd surged with the acquitted men through the principal streets of the city to Lexington hall, the headquarters of the I. W. W. The cheering was continuous.

From every side street in the tenement district flocked crowds of operatives with red lights, and the throng in Lexington hall made the conditions in the building so dangerous that Ettor was forced to ask them all to leave. When from an open window he addressed fully 10,000 persons.

Both Ettor and Giovannitti declared that they owed their lives to the solidarity of the industrial class of the world.

"We shall see," said Giovannitti, "that those who belong to the I. W. W. shall be protected to the full limit of our power, energy and ability."

"You won your strike to get your wages advanced, but you will never get enough until the mills belong to the working class. You have got to band together in a union to gain your end."

The train bringing the three men was three-quarters of an hour late reaching the city. The 20 policemen detailed to the railroad station were lost in the crowd, but there was no disturbance.

As soon as the headlight of the train shot around the curve there was a roar of cheers that lasted an hour, and a rush was made for the car of the labor leaders.

It was impossible to get the men into an automobile provided to take them to headquarters, and the three men had to walk to the hall. At Common and Amesbury streets a portion of the crowd with a brass band tried to march down Essex street, but a crowd of 20 policemen turned them back with no disorder, and the brass band disappeared.

Ettor in a speech at Lexington hall said that the arch erected for the flag demonstration on Columbus day with the motto, "For God and Country, the Stars and Stripes Forever," was a sham, and denounced the citizens committee.

"From now on," he said, "you have but one religion, one God and one country—that is the working solidarity. "I have been informed that through an agitation of politicians some of you workers have been discriminated against in the mills. Giovannitti and I are now in your midst once more in order to conduct your strike. Brother Giovannitti and I stand ready to go with you as far as necessary."

Ettor and Caruso remained here tonight, but Giovannitti went to Quincy.

AUNT DELIA TO FURNISH PIES

For President Taft's Thanksgiving Day Dinner.

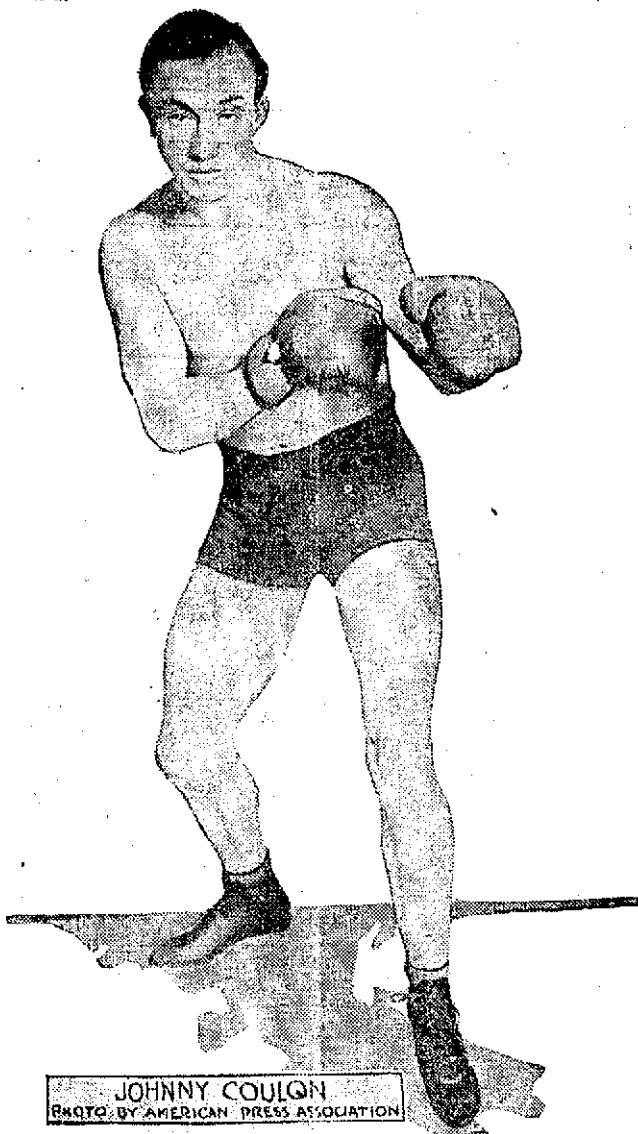

Washington, Nov. 26.—President Taft's Thanksgiving will be spent quietly in Washington, with only a huge turkey, an enormous mince pie, a wedding and two church services to break its monotony. The turkey, from the farm of Horace Vose, near Westbury, R. I., is expected in the White House kitchens tomorrow. It is reported to be a bird of large size and to have been fed on the finest and fit for a President's table. The big mince pie is coming from Miss Della Torrey of Millbury, Mass., the President's favorite aunt.

The big feature of Thanksgiving day in Washington is the Pan-American service at noon in St. Patrick's church, an affair which annually draws scores of high government officials, diplomats from the countries of the world and many of the capital leaders of society. The President may devote an hour or two to office work Thanksgiving morning, but he will rest much of the day. He will attend the Pan-American service and at night will occupy his own pew in All Souls Unitarian church. At 2 o'clock the President will attend the wedding of John W. B. Ladd of Boston and Miss Alice Bontwell daughter of the American minister to Switzerland.

Mrs. Taft is in Washington and Robert and Charles, the Taft boys, are expected to arrive tomorrow night from school. Miss Helen is in Panama.

You buy P. A. in any part of your town or your county—or anywhere in the United States. It's always just as fresh, just as delicious, in Maine or California.

P. A. smokers don't ruin their taste for a bully smoke by being forced to buy unknown, unfried, untrue brands! No, sir, right down at the corner they get the goods.

Some fine day you'll smoke a pipe. Then it will dawn upon you that P. A. won't burn your tongue, because the sting's removed by a patented process. Other men—millions of 'em—smoke P. A. to their heart's content and so will you—sure thing!

You jump at this red-hot tip, invest in one package of P. A. and get a cigarette smoke like you never did know before.

CEMENTFOUR GUNMEN TO DIE JANUARY 6THTake Sentence Without Show of Feeling--Rushed to Sing Sing.

New York, Nov. 26—Gyp the Blood, were sentenced by Justice Goff today to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing in the week of Jan. 6, the murder of Herman Rosenthal. Each of the prisoners were sentenced separately in every case. Charles G. F. Wahle, their counsel moved that the verdict be set aside and the judgement be arrested. These motions Justice Goff successively denied. One of the grounds for Mr. Wahle's motion was that the jury had actually deliberated less than half an hour and that the verdict was the result of passion, prejudice and other influences.

Whitley Lewis was the first to hear his doom pronounced, and was quickly led from the room by four deputy sheriffs. Dago Frank was the next sentenced then Lefty Louis finally the dark visaged Gyp.

None of the condemned men gave any visible outward signs of his feelings. All looked stolidly ahead and each shook the hand of Mr. Wahle as he was led away. Accompanied by Sheriff Harburger and 12 deputies the four were forced through a big silent crowd out through the criminal courts building, thrust into the black Maria and hurried to the Grand Central station to catch the 11.55 a. m. train for Sing Sing. This is the train that Charles Becker took on his ride to the death house. He was sentenced to die in the chair in the week of Dec. 9.

Counsel for the gunmen are preparing an appeal, which will be filed soon, and will act as a stay of execution, as did the appeal in the Becker case.

"Gyp the Blood" Shed a Tear
Gyp the Blood the last to hear the sentence read was led from the court room at 11.02. He alone of the four was unable to control his emotion. His eye lashes were wet and a tear rolled down his cheek as he gave his wrist to the shackles, and was led away. His three companions had borne themselves with granite like indifference and as they were dragged along behind their guards with forced grins and showed their teeth in very unpleasant smiles.

Scenes were enacted about the court room such as probably were never seen in this city before. Police Lieutenant Dominick Riley led the work of weeding out the bad men of New York and one of the very first he pounced on was Humphrey Jackson who assumed the grim mantle of Monk Eastman when the latter's reign as gang leader was cut short by a prison term. Jackson made two handfuls for Riley, but he was pitched out of the building on his neck and passed along from hand to hand until he was hurried out into the jam on Center street.

A dozen of Jackson's pals were gathered up in the next rush and pitched out into the street.

Men and women scrambled to see the condemned men and pursued the van through the streets until it was driven away.

A horse attached to an American Express delivery wagon caused considerable excitement on Congress street Tuesday forenoon.

The animal was left by the driver with a weight, standing on feet street, and the horse took fright at the starting of an automobile and dashed down the street, into Congress street. He was unable to make the turn into Congress street and took the sidewalk just clearing the automobile of Dr. E. B. Eastman, on one side and a hydrant on the other, and narrowly escaped trampling on a woman with a baby carriage. The woman was Mrs. Horace Thompson and she was wheeling her baby in the carriage when she was horrified to see the horse almost over her. She swung the carriage in quick and baby's life for the horse just escaped the carriage, but breaking one of the wheels. Mrs. Thompson grabbed the child from the carriage and rushed into Pettigrew's store.

The horse slipped in attempting to turn on the sidewalk and before he could recover Rufus Wood had him by the head and after a struggle quieted him. The big windows of the Pettigrew store were in grave danger and some damage was done to the Parus brothers fruit stand.

Powers of the Public Service Commission.

The citizens of New Hampshire are much interested in the position taken by the two members of the Public Service commission, who appeared before Attorney General Wick-ersham in Washington last week and urged that they be included in the list as opposing the possible traffic agreement between the Grand Trunk railway and the Boston and Maine railroad.

The Manchester Union discusses the subject as follows: "The announcement that the New Hampshire Public Service commission, Messrs. Benton and Niles acting as a majority, had joined with officials of Massachusetts and Rhode Island in protesting the action of the Grand Trunk in the alleged abandonment of the project of building a line between Palmer and Providence and other extensions in New England comes as a distinct disappointment to those citizens of New Hampshire who had hoped for a high order of efficiency and some dignity in the new Public Service commission. The act of April 15, 1911, creating this commission, constituted it a judicial body with great powers and with minuteness, and particularly provided that it should keep itself free from any acts unbecoming a judicial body. The members are plainly forbidden to act for or against any railroad corporation within or without the state, but are restricted to the judicial determination, after full hearing, of carefully enumerated questions that may arise between the people and their public service corporations. Division h, of Section 2 of the act, provides: '(h) No commissioner shall sit upon the hearing of any question which the commission is to decide in a judicial capacity who would be disqualified for any cause, except exemption from service, to act as a juror upon the trial of the same question between the same parties in an action at law.'

"In view of all this, it came as a surprise to learn from The Associated Press dispatches that Messrs. Benton and Niles had joined with Massachusetts and Rhode Island in protesting to the department of justice against the alleged agreement between the Grand Trunk and the New York, New Haven and Hartford, petitioning the federal government to interpose under the Sherman anti-trust law with the purpose of preserving railway competition in New England.

"It ought to be obvious to the New Hampshire Public Service commission that there is no authority in law and that the department of justice at Washington has no power to make the Grand Trunk railroad compete with the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

"It ought also to be obvious to the members of the New Hampshire Public Service commission that they have no authority to move or appear against these railroad corporations before the department of justice at Washington or elsewhere when matters pertaining to their rights, privileges and immunities are about to come before them as a judicial tribunal.

"It is as yet an undecided question whether the people of New Hampshire would be benefited or not by a traffic arrangement between the Boston and Maine and the Grand Trunk, which it has been suggested, might involve the project of double tracking the system north of Concord. In fact, the whole matter is an open question and in one specific form at least is already formally before the New Hampshire Public Service commission in the petition for a charter to build across the state. What kind of an appreciation of their powers and duties is this which leads two members of this commission to totally disqualify themselves to sit upon these important questions that must come before them?"

A wise commission, such as New Hampshire ought to have, would not be caught in disqualifying its own organization for the sake of personal political advantages.—From the Dover Evening News.

The New York World says the common saying that the greatest danger to the peace of Europe would come not at the beginning but at the end of the Balkan war finds verification in the tramp of armed men from St. Petersburg to Berlin and from Vienna to the Serbian line. The reserves in the three great powers have been called to the colors—in what numbers the censorship does not permit the outside world to know. The southward movement of Austrian troops has been open and apparent. Through all this martial turmoil the markets of the world remain little disturbed. In the great game of diplomacy the clanking of the saber is but the ultimate bluff. Where no one wants a war it is reasonable to assume that a way to avoid war will be found.

The Chicago Journal says the bill to create a national department of health should not wait for the new administration to become a law. Public health is not a political question. The federal government has a department which looks after the health of sheep and cattle, and investigates the diseases of horses and of hogs. But the federal government has no department charged with the duty of safeguarding the health of human beings.

The man who is always finding fault with the town he lives in might improve it a good deal, in many cases, by

Current Comment.

The Engineers' Arbitration.

After several months of work arbitrators named to adjust the wage dispute between locomotive engineers and fifty-two railroad companies in the eastern states, which at one time threatened to precipitate one of the bitterest and most dangerous strikes in the industrial history of the country, have reported, with every likelihood of the acceptance of the report by both sides. Even though the most important recommendation of the commission, urging the adoption of a permanent system of arbitration which can be depended upon in all circumstances to prevent strikes, is not accepted, the present arbitration is nevertheless a great gain in the cause of industrial peace.

As in practically all other labor disputes, this report is not entirely satisfactory to either side. The engineers are disappointed because they do not obtain a higher rate of increase, while the railroad companies feel that they have been molested in excessive advances in wage scale. This is a practically inevitable result of any wage settlement that does not lean markedly to one side or the other. In truth lack of enthusiasm on both sides for an arbitration award is to be regarded as evidence that it is based upon justice and is the result of a close study of working conditions and financial resources.

In almost every industrial controversy, there is need of an unprejudiced judgment, separated entirely from the feelings and interests of the two contending sides. If all employers were capable of seeing wage demands from the point of view of the workers, or if all workers were able to weigh their demands in the light of the employers' responsibilities and obligations, there would be no need of calling in outsiders to sit as judges. In some trades it is possible to settle the majority of differences on this basis, owing to the wise provision of what may be called domestic arbitration arrangements that have in extreme cases operate to bring about settlements without strikes. But owing to the highly organized condition of some of the mechanical trades, particularly those dealing with transportation, these methods have not been worked out satisfactorily. There is no close relationship between workers and employers. It is in such cases as these that the services of arbitrators not directly engaged in the industry are required.

A disposition continues on the part of the organized trades to resist the adoption of methods of compulsory arbitration. In some of the trades strikes and threats of strikes are regarded as essential to the maintenance of the strength of organization. In truth, industrial peace is not desired. But happily this concept of the relationship between employer and worker is being succeeded by a wiser attitude on the part of the more intelligent member of the skilled trades and the arbitration principle is continually gaining despite the malevolent influence of such mischievous organizations as the Industrial Workers of the World, agents of which are even now at work in the Pittsburgh district trying to avert a strike against the steel companies by the engineers and firemen, here employed.—Washington Star.

Cabinet Making

Mr. Wilson who is in Germany, resting warns the public against all cabinet speculation. When the proper time comes, he himself will announce the names of the men who will constitute his official family. Nevertheless speculation will, of course continue. The temptation is too great to be resisted. Too many men in politics and out, are interested in the subject for even Mr. Wilson to control it. His newspaper readings will bring him daily many hints about how he would offer his administration.

Still it will be well for the public to remember that cabinets are formed slowly and are subject to shifts and changes up to the last day of grace. Some cabinet selections have been rebuffed and others made within twenty-four hours of the swearing in of a President.

Take the case of General Garfield. When he reached Washington to be inaugurated he had the name of Uncle Jerry Rusk on his cabinet list but with the feeling that he might have to drop his old friend from Wisconsin, he did not have to drop him at the last moment.

The two men were Jim and Jerry to each other. When the necessity or the change forced itself upon General Garfield, he sent a friend to Uncle Jerry to explain matters, and to offer something which not equally good, yet was very good. But Uncle Jerry put the offer aside with equal emphasis, and returned this reply. "Tell Jim to go to Hades. I am going back home and run for governor of Wisconsin." And he did, was elected, and eight years later was so strong in the Northwest he became the representative of that section along with William Windom in the Harrison cabinet.

When Mr. McKinley arrived in Washington for his first inauguration, Mr. Bliss' selection for the interior department was only tentative. New York wanted as she always has wanted, the treasury department. But under pressure exerted at the last moment, Mr. Bliss consented to accept for a short time the other place.

Mr. Wilson may have some such experience. He may find himself with puzzle blocks to handle. A name sitting in one place today may have to be shifted to accommodate the unfolding conception of things. There will be many names presented for consideration. At least a score of "ancient farmers are mentioned for the secretaryship of Agriculture, ranging from the way from a breeder of saddle horses and prize pigs to a man who has discovered a new way of suckering, growing tobacco, and hoeing a lot of potatoes.

Such is fate, and such a fate Mr. Wilson is seeking the presidency invited. Ask he is not asking for sympathy none need be offered. But all wish him good luck with his task. A strong cabinet is a great blessing.—Washington Star.

For Clean Speech and Songs

The clean language league of America has just met in Chicago and made arrangements for a nation-wide campaign against profanity, vulgarity and unwholesomely suggestive slang, including those supposedly innocent expressions which are in truth only compromises with profanity that are current with habits of speech among people who believe they are wholly innocent of verbal improprieties. Of course such a crusade is bound to meet with many difficulties. The near profanity habit of people is firmly fixed and will prove hard to eradicate. Yet "Oh, show" is not much better in sound than an exclamation that refers to "the hot weather." "Golly, darn it," is only a mildly "paraphrased" substitute for a more shockingly profane expression. Indeed the common speech of persons who probably regard themselves as quite free from profanity is peppered with these ejaculations that have been coined to give expressiveness to speech without actually transgressing the rules of proper language.

The habit of vulgar speech is a great evil that should be fought vigorously by all who are interested in the moral welfare of society. It is totally unnecessary as a means of expression and indeed it is a degrading influence upon the personal vocabulary. The man of profane or vulgar speech is rarely eloquent. His diction is elementary in its range. As a rule he possesses no fine shades of meaning and depends upon mere brute force to attract attention to his utterance.

Much evil is wrought undoubtedly by the currently popular music, the so called rag time songs that are sung in vaudeville, and it is more the pity in family circles. Many of these songs which are heard on the lips of young people who might better be rendering the simple beautiful ballads of a few decades ago, are positively indecent in their signification and double meanings. There is nothing wholesome about them, but on the contrary they exert a poisonous influence and it is gratifying that the Clean Language League of America extends to proceed against this form of musical expression as well as against profanity.—Washington Star.

A Cleveland lawyer tells this one:

"A woman came up to my office the other day and wanted to know if she could get a divorce because her husband didn't believe in the Bible. I told her that unless she had some thing else on him there would be no use in bringing suit."

"But he's an absolute infidel!" she insisted.

"That makes no difference," said I.

"Doesn't it, indeed?" she cried, triumphantly. "Well, you are a law lawyer, I must say. Here's the laws of Ohio, and they say that infidelity, if proved, is a ground for divorce!"

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

Eliot Boys Meant No Harm.

The other evening during the Harvest supper which was being held in Eliot, near Gould's Corner, some of the younger element called upon the property of a very grouchy life member of this section and moved a cart from same property to a position near the waiting room and grocery store, and then informed the owner that his cart was waiting for him at the waiting room, who very much provoked and full of feed, managed to get the cart back to its original position.

The next evening at the regular session of the chair warmers, and cracker barrel artists at the grocery store at this point, the affair of the night before was brought to the attention of the life member. He of course grew very hot under the color and remarked, "Them boys don't care take that cart when I'm around," and threw his head back with an air of importance. A little later the boys were seen to leave the store one by one, having had a little private conference in front of the person who had made the remark and proceeded toward the cart, taking the dare of the owner.

A few minutes later a noise was heard on the outside of the store, and the life member referred to immediately left the store and proceeded home to get his 1885 model, and came back behind the wall and blazed away into the crowd, shots being heard in the store, and also the rain of either buck shot or rock salt. The crowd in the store looked on, and there in the ray of the light from the waiting room was seen the cart, and the crowd realized that the boys had taken up the grouchy owner's dare, and soon he walked into the store with his shot gun in his hand and said, "I'll get them young devils yet." He stuck around awhile and left for home with the cart in tow.

The remaining members in the store remarked upon his sweet disposition, and wondered if he ever looked back to the time when he was a boy, and remembered when he was a bad, if not worse than the rest of them, when they used to cut up papers and use the hill side of the railroad track, known as Furbish's Hill for their place of disposing of everything that was movable, and that a very good motto would be to "Remember that I was Young Once Myself" and to have a more pleasant disposition toward the boys would be one of the best accomplishments and which no doubt would be a blessing for his associates also, if he were to master the two above suggestions.

ONE OF THE BOYS.

Bulgaria's Resurrection.

Bulgaria's awakening, according to the London Chronicle, might almost be called an awakening from the dead. "The disappearance and resurrection of Bulgaria," says Sir Charles Elliot, "are probably without parallel in history. For more than 800 years the national life was suspended. In 1834 Kinglake proceeded from Belgrade to Constantinople and must have passed straight across Bulgaria. Yet in the well-known description of his travels, 'Bohemian,' he makes no allusion to that country or its inhabitants. Even forty years ago (written in 1900) the name Bulgarian was almost unknown, and every educated person coming from that country called himself a Greek as a matter of course."

Babylonian Invoice.

The Academy of France has received the translation of an inscription on a terra-cotta tablet discovered in the ruins of Nineveh. The inscription is of the nature of an invoice. In its several antique articles are listed: a leather gaskie, a cow's hide, a kid skin, a bronze helmet, a silver helmet, a hatchet, a bow and a lance. The inscription gives definite information concerning the quantity of bronze and silver used in making the arms mentioned and makes it a simple matter to estimate the cost of the wool used for the uniform of an Egyptian warrior of the great Babylonian period.—Harper's Weekly.

Land of Peasants.

Servia has been described as the peasant state of Europe. The Serb is a man of primitive emotions and simple tastes. With the exception of Belgrade there are few towns in Servia worthy of the name. Practically the whole population dwells on the land, husbandry and pig rearing being the staple industries. A system of peasant proprietorship prevails. Servia has practically no poor. Every grown man in Servia can claim five acres of land from the government, and this land and its produce are exempt from all claim for debt.

Cat Crisis.

The cats of London are faced with a crisis unparalleled in feline history. There is a famine in cat's meat. A dead horse is as rare nowadays as a dead dunkey. Horses are getting scarce, because of motor cars, and when one does get too old to work it is sent to a home. They do not get killed in London street accidents with anything like the former frequency. When a smash occurs it is generally a motor omnibus that suffers, and not even the hungriest cat can make a decent meal of torn tires and broken spark plugs.

DEMOCRATS WILL RUN BADGER FOR THIRD TERM

Want a Democrat School Board With No Women.

The Democrat city committee at a meeting held on Monday evening, talked over the city election and voted to endorse Mayor D. W. Badger for Mayor, and John W. Barrett for a member of the Board of Public Works.

The committee decided to let the question of the councilmen rest with the ward committees and they will meet to make recommendations to the committee.

There was a lively argument over the question of the School Board. There are four members of the board whose term expires on January 1st, including Mrs. Ida Benfield. For years it has been the custom of both parties to make the school board a non-partisan board, but the majority of the committee decided that they wanted a straight democratic committee, and above the protest of many who objected to the school board being made a political affair. They finally voted to endorse the following ticket—Rev. Alfred Gooding, Edward Saybold, John L. Mitchell, and Dr. W. O. Junkins.

The committee did not select a candidate for assessor, but the two prominent candidates are Ralph Walker and J. Howard Grover.

The committee will meet again on Friday evening to complete their ticket.

The Professional Man and His Funds

Clergymen, physicians, attorneys, writers, artists, actors, educators,—busy men of brains—lose many thousands of dollars in unsound and speculative investments. The reason is clear.

The professional man is absorbed in the labors of his profession, which demand his unremitting attention. He seldom gives due time or thought to the investment of his money. A little of his brain power devoted to a brief but scientific study of investments and these losses would be of rare occurrence.

We have two thoughts to suggest to you professional men. One: Take a little time to study investments and let us give you the information you need, either by mail, or in your offices or in ours.

Two: If you do not feel that you can spare that little time, ask any officer of your bank this question, "Is it the part of wisdom for me to consult E. H. Rollins & Sons in regard to the investment of my surplus funds in a diversity of sound investment bonds that will yield me an average income of 5%?"

The Rollins Investment Service will save you time and money.

IN THE SEWING ROOM

SHORT BITS OF WISDOM THAT ARE OF VALUE.

Will Be Found to Be Labor Savers as Well as Economical—How Rusty Needles May Be Effectively Cleaned.

When darning a rent in woolen goods, and it is impossible to ravel out the goods itself for thread to darn with, use long hairs from your own head. The loose waves of the wool loses the hair in its meshes, and so the darn becomes invisible.

The best way to clean rusty needles is to run them up and down in the earth. Just go out in the garden and stick the needles in the ground, then pull them out. Have the needles threaded, with the thread tied double, so there will be something to catch hold of to extract the needle from the earth. This method is even better than using an emery bag.

When buttons come off shoes and you sew them on again, run through all the other buttons with the same thread with which you replace the missing ones. It will strengthen them all and make the next button sewing a task far in the future.

Small holes in black or white kid gloves can easily be mended with court-plaster. Cut the plaster a little larger than the hole itself, and stick it to the under part of the glove directly over the hole, pressing the kid down smooth on the sticky surface of the plaster. This will last as long as the gloves themselves do.

If the tip breaks off the end of your scissors, the jagged point may be smoothed off by rubbing it on a whetstone. The point will be uneven, but it will cut all right. The same treatment may be used for blunted needles.

Glove clasps, or snap fasteners are better to use as a fastening for plaques on cloth dresses than are hooks and eyes. But when the latter are used be sure to buy those having the peat eyes instead of the ordinary loop eye.

Silk petticoats always give way first at the seam; therefore, when you buy a new one, sew silk seam binding over each seam on the right side. This will often serve as a cure for worn-out petticoats.

When doing drawn work or hem-stitching on linen, soap the place where the threads are to be drawn, using a thick soap lather and a soft brush. After the work is once started, it will be an easy matter to draw out the threads, as they slip very easily on the soapy surface.

Molasses Cornballs.

For a family of five buy two pounds of corn on the cob, or one pound all shelled. After popping pick it over and remove all hard kernels. For the syrup use two cups of molasses and one-half cup of white sugar and boil until hard, when a few drops are put in cold water, then add a piece of butter, size of a walnut and a quarter of a teaspoonful of soda. Pour over the corn and stir thoroughly. Butter the hands and while the corn is warm form into balls. You will have to work quickly as they cool fast. This makes anywhere from two to three dozen cornballs, according to the size you make them.

Marshmallow Fudge.

Heat two cups of granulated sugar, one cup of rich milk, add two squares of chocolate and boil until it hardens in cold water. Just before it is done add a small piece of butter, and then begin to stir in marshmallows, crushing and beating them with a spoon. Continue to stir in marshmallows after the fudge has been taken from the fire until a pound has been stirred into the fudge. Cool in sheets three-fourths of an inch thick and cut into cubes.

Peanut Fudge Filling.

Two cups of sugar, one pint of milk, four squares of chocolate, four tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of vanilla essence, one cupful of chopped peanuts. Put all ingredients into a saucepan and let this stand at the back of the range until the mixture liquefies. Boil until a soft ball is formed; beat until creamy; spread between cakes.

Aunt Maria's Cake.

One-half cup butter, one cup brown sugar, one cup sour milk, two cups flour, one teaspoonful soda put in dry flour, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful cloves, one egg (beat white separately), one teaspoonful molasses, one cup chopped raisins. Bake one hour.

Chestnut Salad.

Shell large chestnuts and blanch them. Then boil until tender. While they are still hot immerse them in French dressing to which has been added a little onion juice. Drain and chill thoroughly. Serve in a bed of watercress.

Pickled Tripe.

To pickle tripe cut into squares and lay in an earthen pot, and pour over boiling vinegar enough to cover, in which a blade of mace, a dozen whole cloves and a stick of cinnamon have been boiled. It will be ready for use in 12 hours.

Cleaning Bedsteads.

To clean white iron bedsteads use a damp cloth and a little cooking soda. This will leave the bedstead clean and white. Soda will also remove nearly all stains from the sink.

No indigestion in Cottolene doughnuts

Cottolene heats to a higher temperature than either butter or lard, without burning or smoking. The high temperature of the fat hardens the albumen, forming a thin crust or coating, which prevents the food from becoming fat-soaked. The use of Cottolene saves half the time in frying.

Cottolene is a vegetable oil shortening—as healthful as olive oil—easily digested—makes food rich and crisp, but never greasy.

Cottolene is absolutely pure and clean in its origin, its manufacture, and method of packing. It is never sold in bulk—always in air-tight tin pails which protect it from dirt, dust and odors of the grocery. Purchase a pail of Cottolene from your grocer today.

CARRYING 65,000 TURKEYS

Washington, Nov. 26.—With a majority of its 68,000 passengers gobbling their despairing protests, a special train of 42 cars raced through Washington early today bound for New York, with turkeys from eastern Tennessee, destined to grace many a Gotham table. There were 34 cars filled with live turkeys, each car in charge of a special man, who looked after the comfort of the fowls and eight refrigerator cars containing birds killed and prepared for market.

The turkey special is said to be the biggest single shipment of turkeys made in many years.

NO CHANGE IN THE BALKAN WAR

London, Nov. 26.—No change for the worse in the international political situation brought about by the war in the Balkans is visible today, except insofar as the continued tension decreases the ability of diplomacy to resist a rupture.

Great Britain, France, and Germany are all giving counsels of moderation, both at Vienna and St. Petersburg. There is also reason to believe that Great Britain has given Serbia as well as Russia and France to understand that she has no interest in Serbia's demand, for a part in the Adriatic sea. She has also told them that she has no intention of supporting Serbia's claim by force of arms nor of adding any other power to do so.

The fact that the Austro-Hungarian counsel at Pristina has arrived at Uskup thus disposing of the reports of his murder removes one of the thorn points that have caused particular exasperation to the Austrians and should tend to smooth their feelings.

The program of the negotiations among the delegates of Turkey and of the Balkan allies at Tchatkaja is still a sealed book. In diplomatic circles in London it is stated that Turkey has presented the following as an acceptable basis for an agreement.

First—No war for indemnity.

Second—The retention by Turkey of the territory bounded by the Maritza river, the fortress of Adrianople to be included.

Third—The maintenance of the sovereignty of the Sultan of Turkey in Albania.

PROCHASKA IS HEARD FROM

Austrian Counsel at Pristina, Missing for a month. Arrived at Uskup Yesterday.

Vienna, Nov. 26.—Herr Prochaska, Austro-Hungarian counsel at Pristina arrived at Uskup yesterday from the city. The news reached the Austro-Hungarian office officially today and dispenses of the rumor that the counsel has been assassinated.

No direct news had been received from Herr Prochaska for a month, and his silence gave rise to rumors that he had been killed and caused great tension in the relations between Austria-Hungary and Serbia.

JOKE IS ON WICKERSHAM

Mourned Death of Judge Putnam—Attorney General Expressed His Sorrow Over Loss.

Judge William N. Putnam of the United States District Court Tuesday seemed to enjoy as much as his colleagues on the bench what may be considered a sort of a grim joke, in which he is made to appear as dead, by none other than Attorney General Wickersham, who really believed the judge had died and so innocently has written to one of the clerks of the court in the Federal Building.

Not long since the clerk, in question sent to the Attorney General a handsomely embossed and bound copy of the memorial incidental to the death, services and accomplishments of the late Judge Francis C. Lowell.

In the reply of the Attorney General acknowledging the receipt of the book he feelingly and sorrowfully expressed his personal sorrow over the death of Judge Putnam, in whose passing the nation and bar had suffered an irreparable loss. The Attorney General in his letter also alludes to the affection he entertained for the Judge in life, and whose memory would be ever in his heart.

The memorial, Mr. Wickersham said he would preserve in his library when free from the cares of office, he would often in meditation think of Judge Putnam.

That Judge Putnam is not yet dead was amply shown by his presence in the United States Court Room in the Federal Building today. "Old Put" as he is affectionately called, appeared very much alive and in his usual robust health.

Of course he appreciated the joke, for he has been long considered the humorist, as well as the Nestor, of the bench of the New England circuit. "Old Put" however, said nothing as he may await the shock likely to come to the Attorney General when the latter awakes and finds that his dear old friend, Judge Putnam, is not dead yet, but very much alive.

Mr. Wickersham may also appreciate the joke.

MADE HIM GOOD AMERICAN

Act of Wise Father That Kept His Boy in the Path of His Birth and Duty.

It is claiming rather a great deal to say that a child's whole future career may depend upon the hearing of a story! But, unquestionably, it is true. A boy I know, whose parents were obliged to live in England during two of his early years—from the time he was eight until he was ten—said to his father one day: "Am I an Englishman, an American, or haven't I any country at all?"

"His father, a loyal American, started at this question, read to the boy "A Man Without a Country."

"You are an American," he told the boy. "Never forget that!"

The boy, now a man, is just about to enter the United States army. Much of his life has been passed in other countries, but he is an American.

"I think I might have become an Englishman, or a man with no particular loyalty to any flag," he said recently, "had it not been for the story of 'A Man Without a Country,' which my father read to me when I was a little boy in England. I didn't understand all of it, but I understood enough to keep me forever loyal to the land of my birth, no matter where I might happen to be growing up."—Elizabeth McCracken in the Home Progress Magazine.

MAY WITHDRAW SHIPS FROM THE GREAT LAKES

All United States vessels may be withdrawn from the Great Lakes and a result of the refusal of the ship-building companies on the lakes to enter into repair contracts with the navy department on account of their hostility to the eight hour law. The lake plants are operated on a ten hour basis and although attorney General Wickersham ruled that a company working on a government contract could use its men on other work after employing them eight hours on the government job, none of the companies wants a contract from the department. The test came when the department vainly endeavored to have repairs made on the converted yacht Dorothien. The situation is not considered particularly serious, because the United States vessels on the lakes only for use in training naval militia. Under existing treaties the government has no police boats along the Canadian border, and if the training craft cannot be repaired on the lakes, they will be withdrawn and sent to other waters. Besides the Dorothien there are now on the lakes the gunboats Dan Juan de Austria and Dubuque and the steamers Essex, Gophir, Hawk, Wolverine and Yantic.

EXETER LETTER

The four-year-old child of John and Della Demersky met with a painful accident and which resulted fatally. The child in some manner got hold of a kerosene can and spilled the oil on its clothing, the oil saturating the garments. While clean clothing was being collected for the child it in some manner got some matches, and these becoming ignited readily set fire to the oil-soaked garments. Painful burns on the body resulted and death occurred Monday afternoon. The family resides on Washington street.

Exeter will observe the holiday tomorrow in the old Puritan manner, there being nothing in the way of sports or attractions set for the day. The union meeting will be held at the Unitarian church in the morning at 10.30 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Edward Green, and during the day stores and other places of business will be closed. Many out-of-town people are expected here for the holiday. Phillips Exeter academy will have a recess till Friday, and the students residing nearby will go to their homes for the day. Those living far away will remain in Exeter where a Thanksgiving dinner will be served in Alumni hall.

The open season on deer in Rockingham county goes into effect Monday. The continuation is for fifteen days, excluding Sundays, making the close of the season on midnight of the 15th, as there are three Sundays in the period allotted by the law for the slaughter of the animals. If the snow holds off as it has during the past few seasons the killing will probably be light. Fred Currier has returned from eye and ear infirmary in Boston, where he has been under treatment for the past month for an injured eye. He first sustained the injury while working on Plimpton field, and it was feared that the loss of his sight would result. The danger is now practically over.

The funeral service of Gardner Gilman, aged 63, was held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home on High street, conducted by the Rev. Dr. S. H. Dana, pastor of the Phillips church. Mr. Gilman was one of the prominent citizens, from the old Revolutionary stock, his father, Capt. Nathaniel Gilman, having received his title in the war of 1812, and was a nephew of Gov. John Taylor Gilman, a Revolutionary officer. He had been an Exeter resident most of his life, with the excep-

Social events scheduled for this week are Friday evening a dance by the senior class of the Tuck high school and Saturday evening a leap year dance by the young ladies.

Mrs. Mary J. Field and son left today for Providence, R. I., where they will spend the holiday with another son, Curtis, who is a freshman at Brown university.

The funeral service of Mrs. Margaret Mullen was held Tuesday morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart at Newfields, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Fr. Mohr. A survivor in that town is Mrs. John Herlihy, a daughter. She also has children in Newmarket.

As yet there has been no appointment as district deputy of the grange to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charles I. Pressy of Atkinson, but the work will be performed by Alvin Weeks of Rochester and Professor Lundstrom of the New Hampshire college. A deputy is appointed, which will not be until after the meeting of the State grange in Nashua.

The January term of the superior court which sits here on the third Tuesday of the month will probably be a short session, as the jury comes in a Portsmouth, Dec. 3, and it is likely to clear up the docket somewhat. There are no important cases, and then the meeting of the legislature, which usually takes away many of the lawyers will also tend to shorten the session.

WORK FOR MONEY BUT STAY AT SCHOOL

They do not allow working to interfere with going to school in Hammond, Indiana. Special arrangements are being made whereby boys and girls may work half a day in certain commercial establishments, and attend school the balance of the day. Hammond is a manufacturing community where the temptation to boys and girls is strong to leave school and earn a living. Supt. McDaniel plan makes it possible for boys and girls to earn money, remain in school, and also make themselves more efficient industrially.

The plan at Hammond is based on a full realization of modern social and industrial conditions. Supt. McDaniel proceeds on the theory that, while there are certain general principles underlying education, each community has its own special problems that are too often disregarded in the making of the schools. Besides the cooperative and shop arrangement, Hammond maintains a night school with an attendance of 700, where boys and girls may not only make up elementary deficiencies, but also receive special training in specific phases of commerce and industry.

Vocational guidance forms another feature of the Hammond school. The schools furnish information about the various industries in the community, the salaries paid in different lines of work, the opportunities for advancement, hours of labor, permanency of employment, and all of the details of value in determining a choice of employment. As early as the sixth grade the teacher tests the child's interest and ability in various forms of elementary work, so that he may come to have some idea of his future vocation. The school authorities also maintain an employment bureau were present and former pupils are registered and their qualifications carefully investigated.

FOREIGNERS INTERESTED IN AMERICAN EDUCATION

Canadian educators are impressed with the facilities for educational information in the United States. Mr. David Sloan, principal of the Nova Scotia Normal School, considers the Federal Bureau of Education at Washington one of the best and readiest sources of information about the schools of Canada.

Dr. Sloan is not the first educator who paid tribute to the wisdom of Congress in providing a central bureau for the diffusion of educational information, but as an expert of information his opinion deserves to be quoted. After speaking of the history of education in the United States, as illustrious, and describing the part of government, through its Bureau of Education, has played in it, he has save uncalculated millions of educational effort merely through its punctual effort to teach and every educational enterprise, every attempted reform, every individual initiative. It has prevented duplication of experiment, reported educational progress in foreign countries, sifted statistics, and consulting reports gathered the facts the leaders of education in America needed to be satisfied of.

Education is international. No matter how local and national certain of its problems may be, the fundamentals of education are identical in all civilized countries. It is surely worth knowing that in this international exchange of ideas the United States bears no small part.

UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER CAR.

The life of an auto engine depends a great deal on its cooling system. If it doesn't cool properly or evenly, it causes the piston and cylinders to bind and wear unevenly and does great damage to a motor to get overheated.

The Cadillac cooling system like its oiling system is unequalled by any other car. It is impossible to overheat a Cadillac motor unless you neglect to put in water or have mechanical trouble which is almost unknown on a Cadillac except from neglect. The Cadillac water and oiling system need less attention than any auto built because the system is so near perfect that it doesn't evaporate.

WAR PERIL CAUSES ALARM

European peoples want war, says: "Yet that is whether the nations are blindly drifting."

It asked: "Who then makes war?" and replies: "The answer is to be found in the chancelleries of Europe among the men who too long have played with human lives as pawns in a game of chess, and who have become so enmeshed in formulas and the jargon of diplomacy that they have ceased to be conscious of the poignant realities with which they tangle."

"The Pall Mall Gazette almost alone speaks in a warlike voice. It declares: 'England ought to act firmly with France and Russia in refusing simply to be swept aside. If the conference desired by the British government is refused, we ought to face the alternative and stand by our friends.'"

Mobilizing Long Process.

The mobilization of the Austrian and Russian armies requires weeks for what Germany and France can accomplish in days. In Russia's case this is on account of the great distances the troops must travel; in Austria's because the units of the army are on a peace footing, which is only one-third of their war strength. Therefore, considerations of safety compel them to begin when the signals are remote.

England, France and Germany are playing a peacemaking role. Their efforts are directed apparently toward keeping the powers together in a compact to refrain from taking up piecemeal the questions which their war raises and defer their consideration until the general conference.

The withdrawal of the Austrian warship at Constantinople to join the fleet is taken as an unfavorable signal, and the imminent Serbian occupation of Durazzo, on the Adriatic sea, tends further to bring Austria and Serbia toward the breaking point.

On the other hand, the safe arrival at Viskup of the Austrian consul Prochaska, who it was feared had been killed, should lessen the tension, and the fact that the Austrian ambassador lunched today with the Russian Emperor would seem to indicate that the relations between these two powers are still cordial.

Add 30 Heavy Guns.

Thirty more heavy guns were brought to the fortress at Belgrade Tuesday and strong forces have been recalled from the seat of war to the Serbian capital.

This information is sent by the Belgrade correspondent of the Standard, who adds that there are still a considerable number of fresh troops there. The Turkish and Albanian prisoners are employed in strengthening the fortifications.

Another Belgrade dispatch says: "After several hours' conversation today with King Peter, Baron Hartwig, the Russian minister to Serbia, said to the leading Serbian journalists: 'Gentlemen, get ready to pack your trunks soon. The King shares my opinion in every respect.'"

"These words are interpreted to imply that the situation is extremely serious."

A majority of the ministers at Constantinople favor continuing the war, according to a dispatch from the Turkish capital. The minister of war has been ordered not to accept the Bulgarian proposals, but to wait for fresh instructions.

The Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Telegraph sends this dispatch: "Turkey is rapidly drifting toward the Triple Alliance. A rupture of the armistice negotiations is regarded as imminent and certain."

"Both government organs, Ikdam and Sabah, employ unusual frankness in discussing the situation. They assert that while the Triple Entente (Great Britain, France and Russia) is urging the Porte to conclude peace the Triple Alliance (Austria, Germany and Italy) advises resistance, and, foreseeing a general war, both papers argue that Turkey should profit thereby to secure the best possible bargain when the settlement comes to be discussed by the European conference."

"This, they declare, can best be attained by throwing the Turkish military strength on the side of the Triple Alliance."

WORTH TRYING.

To make a reliable baking powder, take one part of soda, two parts of cream of tartar and as much cornstarch as the combined bulk of the two first mentioned ingredients, and mix all thoroughly together.

To clean the stovepipe chimneys, so choked up with soot that the fire refuses to burn, lay a piece of zinc (old or new) on a bed of red coals and the fumes arising from the burning zinc will clean both pipe and chimney of all dust and soot.

To get the best effects on floors and have them harmonize with the furnishings, have them finished merely to the point of a soft glow and not to a shine.

To keep heavy granite ware in good condition, boil it in soda water for five or ten minutes twice a week.

To clean plaster casts without injuring their outline, brush them or wipe them with an application of dry powdered whiting, which penetrates the creases of the design.

To mend a slightly broken plaster article make a solution of camphor and alcohol thickened with shellac. This must be applied hot to the edges of the pieces to be cemented, and the pieces must be held together until the liquid has cooled and hardened.

POSSIBLE CANDIDATES

For Places on the Republican Ticket at Coming Election.

While there is no rush of candidates who wish to take up the fight against Mayor Badger in the coming campaign there are a few who would like to be on the republican ticket for other places.

When the caucus fight is on the name of John Carl may be on the ballot in ward one if his political friends can find any way of landing him in a council chair at City Hall.

According to reports Judge Adams, who filled the mayor's chair for two terms, is not retired for good in politics. The judge and ex-mayor is a resident of ward four and would, it is understood, represent that ward in the council if things come his way. There is a strong move in that ward to send him back to City hall and it is up to the ward committee whether or not he is the candidate from old Sebastopol.

Little has been done relative to the selection of nominees for councilmen-at-large. However, Captain W. H. White, who has served a few terms in the council, is talked of, but the Captain has not been very active in the political arena of late and he may pass it up.

The friends of John Newick, who do not feel good since he was defeated for the public works, are out with his name again. It is said he will either be a council candidate from the third ward or on the ticket may have his name as the man to fight the democrat for the board of public works.

Frederick Gardner will go in the caucus for assessor against C. E. Hodgdon, the present assessor who will again come up for the nomination.

The ward candidate in ward five may be Charles H. Brewster, who has before represented the river front district at City hall. This year, according to the arrangement, ward five is entitled to a candidate at large on a ticket.
